Yorktown Notes.

Aug. 17, 1898—County Court convened Monday. The grand jury was in session but made no indictments.

The recent rains have greatly benefited vegetation. Corn especially feels its influence.

Mr. Stephen Cole has lately been placed in charge of the National cemetery here, succeeding Supt. Ridge. His late post was Camp Nelson, Ky., a short distance from Lexington. We feel that the bivouac of the dead will have proper attention. Mr. Cole is accompanied by his family.

Shiloh Baptist church (colored) is rapidly assuming shape, and bids fair to be an architectural gem.

Watermelons are being shipped in quantities from this vicinity and we trust with fair prices realized.

Zion M. E. Church, Crab Neck, is just now holding its regular season of protracted meeting, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Wallace.

Mrs. J. W. Rogers returned from a trip to Baltimore relatives a few days since.

The famous fisherman's license question failed of recognition by the grand jury on Monday and no indictments were made in that line as expected.

A Delightful Picnic.

Toano, Va., Aug. 16, 1898.—Another picnic even more delightful than that given on the first of this month was the one at "Taskinas" on Friday, Aug. 12, 1898. "Taskinas" is a delightful spot located on the historic York river. It is in old James City county, a county famous in the history of Virginia. "Taskinas" has been recently purchased by a northern syndicate, the President of which is Mr. Wilbur H. Davis, of Boston. Since being purchased by this syndicate it has become a great pleasure resort for amateur fishermen and huntsmen; but it is especially famous for the celebrated Taskinas mineral water, which is known to rival even that of Saratoga.

The memory of last Friday will long remain with those who were fortunate enough to be among the party enjoying the picnic at the celebrated spot. The day was one with just enough cloud to make the sunshine glorious and appreciated. The breeze was gentle and exhilarating, which contributed especially to the pleasure of sailing, fishing and crabbing. In honor of the guests Mr. C. W. Gaites, manager and traveling salesman of the Taskinas Spring Company, ordered Old Glory to be raised over the picnic grounds, and as the Stars and Stripes fluttered in the gentle breeze the surrounding air rang with cheers from the patriotic picnickers. After a few hours of sailing, crabbing, fishing and other pleasure adapted to the varied tastes of those assembled, the signal for dinner was given and soon there was spread upon the beach an old Virginia dinner. The ladies seemed to vie with one another in producing everything that the appetite could wish for. After dinner Mr. Wilmont Leggett and Mr. W. E. Banks, officials in the Taskinas bottling factory, threw open their doors, and courteously showed the party through the various departments.

Mesdames R. P. Wright, J. M. Jennings, C. C. Branch, C. H. Butler, Granville Medley, E. M. Peterson, Wilson and Williams gracefully chaperoned the party. Among the ladies present were: Misses Nannie and Lula Wright, Toano; Ellen and Mammie Richardson, West Point; Ethel, Olivia, Ellen, Maud and Mary Coleman, Gloucester; Mary and Elizabeth Booth, Houston; Maud and Nettie Butler and Lucy Jennings, James City; Sadie Jones, Richmond; Bessie Richardson, Hampton; Lula Richardson, New Kent; Susie Warburton, Newport News; Kittie Taylor, Alice Hankins, Bessie Lamb, Toano; Ruby Leigh, West Point; Mary Waller Mercer, Williamsburg; Sadie, Janie and Susie Porter, Tarboro, N. C. Among the gentlemen present were R. L. Spencer, T. H. Geddy, Hugh Mercer, Reynolds Hankins, Williamsburg; C. C. Cowles, R. Kemper Taylor, Dr. H. U. Stephenson, Teano; Lightfoot Richardson, Croaker; Dr. W. P. Isley, Louisville, Ky.; Geo. Hankins, E. S. Cowles, Pollard Vaiden, H. H. Richardson, B. C. Vaiden, Newport News; Loyld Lawson, Capt. Richard Coleman, Gloucester; J. G. Carlton, Tilden Wright, Archie Banks, Cleveland Wright, J. M. Jennings, S. S. Hankins, W. W. Ware, L. M. Ellyson, E. L. Geddy.

After enjoying a most delightful day, the entire party gathered at the the Club house and tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. Wilbur H. Davis, President of the Club; to Messrs. Leggett and Banks, officials; to Mr. C. W. Gaites, the genial manager, and to the members of the Club at large.

Thus ended a day at "Taskinas" which all the picnickers declared one of the most enjoyable of their lives.
